The onslaughts were delivered east and west of the Souain-Bomme-py road, the Germans losing heavily.

Bad weather hindered operations on the Bomme front, but east of Berny the French made further progress, taking some prisoners.

The German attack on the Dead Man's Hill sector was directed against a trench captured by the French yesterday, but was repulsed.

The only advance on the Somme front reported by the war offeie today, was east of Berny, in which the French frove deeper into the German lines the wedge that now divides the German lines around Peronne from the Bavarian divisions operating hear Chaulnes. The object apparently was to extend the French gains in this region and improve the positions against the possibility of heavy German counter-attacks.

The recent fighting on the front south of the Somme left hundreds of German the opposing lines.

The Havarians defended their positions with the greatest stubbornness and at many places the French advanced only after wiping out whole companies of seveny soldiers.

M. D. Imhoff made a special plea for more personal service in charity work.

"There is a great tendency nowadays to put everything in the hands of the paid worker," he said. "Too many in our charity organizations would rather give a few dollars a year and let someone else do the work. We ought to remember that when whave contributed our share to charity organizations we have not done all that is expected of us."
